A CARD.

RICHARD REID, of Montgomery county, is a candidate for Judge of the Superior Court of the Third District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Lots of good dogs are dying now in Nicholas county, since the Assessor has started out on his mission of duty.

NEW ORLEANS has just had another duel after the French fashion—bluster and burnt powder, but no blood.

THERE were 1,399 bills introduced in the House during the last session, of which a few more than a thousand were passed.—[Yeoman.]

OSCAR WILDE returns from the Pacific Coast with a Chinese body servant. No one ought to object, if the Chinaman can stand it.

THERE was a circus in Frankfort Friday, and the people rejoiced because it reminded them so strongly of the Legislature.—[Louisville Post.]

THE per diem of the members of the Legislature footed up $104,340. The total expense of the session will be somewhere between a hundred and fifty thousand and two hundred thousand dollars.

NEW wheat from Georgia has made its appearance in Cincinnati. It was sown near Americus, Ga., November 26th, 1881, harvested April 7th, and threshed April 21st, averaging twenty bushels per acre, and of good quality.

THE Newport Journal declares that the question of levying a tax of two cents on the $100 for the purpose of equalizing the school funds for white and colored children in Kentucky, will bring out a large and intelligent dark vote.

THE Confederate Government never made but four silver dollars, one of which was sold in New York a short time ago for $800, and another is held by a man in Texas at $3,000, for which an offer of $1,100 has been made. They are mementos of what "might have been."

YESTERDAY in West Virginia, one man killed another because he declined to take a drink, and recently in Louisiana, a town official was murdered because he tasted some whiskey before he offered it to another. In the name of God, is there no proper time to drink?

WALLACE Gruelle, editor of the Breckenridge News, will not support either Henry or Jacob and says: "Wherefore we fly to the woods, the glorious woods, where the grasses are soft and velvety, the leaves green and tremulous, the shades cool and inviting, the wild flowers beautiful and fragrant, and the song-birds full of tune."

GEN. ABE BUFORD delivered a very ludicrous lecture in Louisville the other evening, in which he tried to harmonize horse-racing with religion. He advanced the biblical theory that citizens ought to be loyal to their government, and armies were necessary for that loyalty; and, as the cavalry branch of the army was the strongest and most effective (Good Lord, deliver us) department of the service; therefore it was necessary that all citizens should lend a willing and holding hand to the laudable enterprise of propagating the race-horse, (a good thing for cavalry to get away on.) We had pretty fair respect for Mr. Buford's article of religion until his lecture appeared in print; but now we think it is about half horse and half alligator, and is but little better than that article of sweet consistency which tells a man to make life happy by any and all means that does not infringe on the rights of others.

Was it God, Devil, or Man?

ACCORDING to theology of the present day, God did a curious piece of work the other day down at Carlisle. He sought the opportune time when Dan Delaney, a poor member of the Catholic church was trying to expedite his work so that he could go home early in the evening to see his wife and six poor children, and take them something to eat. But instead of letting him go on his mission of love and mercy, made him tie some rocks on the escape valve of an old saw-mill engine, and suddenly hurled him into eternity, through the explosion of an old boiler. He was cautious, too, to have Ben Gore, an old infidel, to stoop over a little and bore an auger hole for a sled standard, and while he was stooping, sent about half of the boiler over his back and barely missed him, and knocked the auger out of his hands with another piece just to warn him of his wicked course. Now Mr. Barnes comes along with a more progressing kind of religion, and takes the blame all from God's shoulders, and lays it all on the devil. Well, let's see about that. The Bible, Barnes, and theology all claim that the devil is hard at work and claims his own, ever chance he gets. In this case he did not work fully up to his imitable plan. He, on the other hand, killed the good Christian, and let his infidel friend go his way scott free, and risk the chances of turning Christian. A mountain of inconsistency looms up here, and many men will no doubt come to the conclusion that neither God nor the devil had anything to do with the ignorant and imprudent Irishman putting those rocks on the safety valves and ushering himself out into that great whence, but will simply view it as one of the many violations of a mechanical law, which inflicts its own punishment—every day, the world over. Had Mr. Delaney run his engine right, he would have lived. Had he taken off his coat and cooled off too suddenly from an overheated condition, he would have paid the penalty of violation of a physical law, with a case of pneumonia, rheumatism, or a severe cold.

In conclusion, we believe in a better God and a meaner devil than Mr. Barnes teaches, and vindicate them both from the charge of blowing up Collier's saw-mill.

AROUND THE CIRCLE.

A ten-cent subscription for a monument to Daniel Boone, to be erected at Boonesboro, will soon be started at Richmond.

Jo. T. Quisenberry, a well-known farmer and trader of Clark county, has made an assignment. Liabilities estimated at $10,000.

Harrison county Court has increased its subscription from $750 to $1,200 per mile for turnpikes hereafter built in that county.

At Sinking creek, in Carter county, three children were killed by eating wild parsnips. The mother, Mrs. Fisher, it is thought will die.

A Simpson county cat is nursing a young squirrel along with her litter of kittens, "without reference to race, color, or previous condition" of squirrelhood.

Hon. J. C. S. Blackburn is by all odds the favorite of the people of Henry county for re-election to Congress in November next, so far as an expression has been given.

The Maysville Bulletin thinks the fact of there being three distilleries in that town ought to be some inducement toward the removal of the capital to Maysville.

The early crop of boy babies in this Congressional district is the largest known for many years, and the first thing they want to know is how long it will be before they can vote for Joe Blackburn.—[Lex. Observer.]

Capt. J. M. Thomas, of Paris, seems to be a broad-spirited man of enterprise. In March he induced Bro. Barnes to assail the devil's works in Paris, and the month following he contracts for an opera house.—[Lex. Observer.]

Turpentine mixed in chicken food is stated, upon good authority, to be a sure preventative and a certain cure for chicken cholera. If the chickens refuse to eat it, force a little down their throats.—[Vanceburg Courier.]

JUST GOT OUT OF HELL!

My Christian friends will perhaps think this blasphemy, and wonder how so good a man got into this horrible place; and especially wonder how we got out? The way we got there, happened in this way: About the 25th of January, a smooth and smiling devil came booming along, and sailed into the PARIS FLOURING MILLS, and represented that he was putting a "new dress on mill stones," claiming he was using Tom "Jones' Patent Gradual Reduction Dress," arguing that it greatly improved the quality of flour, reduced the friction in grinding, and consequently, required less power. (About two years ago, Mr. Jones called on me in person, and exhibited some beautiful samples of flour, claiming it was the result of his Patent Dress.) Whilst I had my doubts and misgivings on the subject, our smooth and smiling devil insisted on me to let him change the dress on my mill burrs, and, like a grassy "greener," I assented—a terrible mistake for me; but such is life.

"Reasoning at every step he takes, man yet mistakes his way." It required nearly a month to make this change, and then I found too late this dress would not do. The sudden reduction of wheat into flour in process of grinding, darkened the quality of the flour, and we had numerous complaints, (something so unusual.) Here was hell "for sartin'"; but I was determined to get out—here, I would not stay, so I went to counsel with my old mulling friends of the Limestone Mills, of Maysville: they very sympathetically informed me that they had been in the same horrible hell themselves about twelve months previously—they had adopted the same dress, and found it would not do, and at a heavy expense, they had to change back to the old dress, and then all was right again. This was comforting information to me, so I posted off to Cincinnati, and employed mill-stone dressers and mill-wright to return with me and change the mill-stones to the old dress; precisely equivalent to putting in new stones. This covered a space of six weeks. In changing the burrs back to the old dress, we got beautiful new faces and furrows in the mill burrs, pecked and diamond dressed them to perfection. This, together with some improved machinery I have just placed in the mill, with the largest and most select stock of wheat of any miller in Kentucky, I feel warranted in saying our Parisian Flour will equal, if not surpass its former reputation.

Thus it will be seen that the way we got out of "hell," we "scaled the battlements" and boomed out; and, fate favouring intend to stay out—"Praise the Lord!"

Truly Yours as Ever,
 BILLY SHAW.

The Safe of Ashland.

The home of Henry Clay, was sold on Tuesday by the executive Committee of Kentucky University to Major Henry Clay McDowell, of Franklin. The property contains 324 acres, and the price is $60,000. By this sale the property passes back to the Clay family, where it should be. Mrs. McDowell is the grand-daughter of the "Sage of Ashland" and the only surviving child of Col. Henry Clay, who fell at battle of Buena Vista, leading the Kentucky troops in that gallant charge in which so many brave men fell, turning the tide of battle and changing defeat into victory.

Ashland was purchased some fifteen years since by the citizens of Lexington at a cost of $90,000 and donated as a site for the Agricultural and Mechanical College, but owing to a failure to properly secure the title and a long era of bad management, the property has been diverted from the object for which it was purchased, and the proceeds of the sale will go to pay debts contracted under the Bowman Regency.

Millinery Goods.

I would respectfully announce to the public, that I am now in receipt of a very select stock of SPRING MILLINERY Goods, and am prepared to supply the wants of the most fastidious in anything pertaining to that line of business. My shop being in my residence on High street, will enable me to deduct a large per cent. from prices, saved from paying, extravagant rents on a more public thoroughfare.

I would be pleased to have all the ladies call.

Master Commis'or's Sale

45 Acres Bourbon Land

By virtue of a judgement of sale rendered by the Bourbon Court, at the April term 1882, in an action there pending of Letitia Curl Executrix etc., against E. Curl etc. devices, I will sell at the courthouse door in Paris, Ky., on Saturday, May 20th, 1882, a tract of land situated in Bourbon County, containing forty-five acres, and described as follows: "Bounded on the North by the land owned by the heirs of Benjamin Howe, on the South by the land owned by James Russell, on the East by the land owned by David Penn, and on the West by the land owned by James Russell and the heirs of Benjamin Howe, and the same tract of land upon which the decedent, John Curl was living at the time of his death, and the same upon which the plaintiff Letitia Curl now resides."

Said land is within a few miles of Paris, and has on it a residence, stable etc.

Said sale will be made for the purpose of paying the decedent's debts, costs and expenses of sale which will amount to about $1,200, and also for the purpose of division among the husband's devisees.

Terms: Six months credit for the purchase money bearing interest from day of sale until paid at the rate of six per cent. per annum, for which the purchaser will be required to execute his bond to with good and approved security, having the force of a judgement.

R. H. HANSON,
 Master Commissioner.
 April 29th 1882.

NOTICE!

All persons knowing themselves indebted to the late Edward Collier, will call and settle. All persons having claims against his estate, will prove the same according to law, and present to me for settlement.

Ague Cure

Is a purely vegetable bitter and powerful tonic, and is warranted a speedy and certain cure for Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Intermittent or Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, and all malarial disorders. In malarial districts, the rapid pulse, coated tongue, thirst, lassitude, loss of appetite, pain in the back and loins, and coldness of the spine and extremities, are only premonitions of severer symptoms, which terminate in the ague paroxysm, succeeded by high fever and profuse perspiration.

It is a startling fact, that quinine, arsenic and other poisonous minerals, form the basis of most of the "Fever and Ague Preparations," "Specifics," "Syrrups," and "Tonics," in the market. The preparations made from these mineral poisons, although they are palatable, and may break the chill, do not cure, but leave the malarial and their own drug poison in the system, producing quinine, dizziness, ringing in the ears, headache, vertigo, and other disorders more formidable than the disease they were intended to cure. AYER'S AGUE CURE thoroughly eradicates these noxious poisons from the system, and always cures the severest cases. It contains no quinine, mineral, or any thing that could injure the most delicate patient; and its crowning excellence, above all others, is that it leaves the system as free from disease as before the attack.

For Liver Complaints, AYER'S AGUE CURE, by direct action on the liver and biliary apparatus, drives out the poisons which produce these complaints, and stimulates the system to a vigorous, healthy condition.

We warrant it when taken according to directions.
